Sun in 12 and Ketu in 8 from lagna though their mutual position was good (9th from Dasha Sun) their bad positions from lagna predominated.

Chart-8 : (KGV) In D-1 Shukra is in Ketu star (Ashwini), so the two are related. In D-12 Shukra in lagna and Ketu and Moon in 8. In Shukra Dasha-Ketu Bhukti-Moon Anthara he lost his father. Note here Moon is with Ketu-indicating widowhood to mother. In the same D-14 Rahu and Shani are in 2 (maraka house). His mother died in Rahu-Shani. Why mother? Shani is Lord of 4 in D-1. See his D-10. Rahu as Birth Yogi is in 10 with Shani own house. Shani is also a duplicate Yogi. So Rahu Dasha-Shani Bhukti was his best professional period.

Chart-38 : (Sri Chandrasekhara Bharathi) In D-1 Rahu is in 7 (maraka house) in Kuja's house aspected by powerful Kuja. So the two are related. In D-8 they are on either side of lagna forming Papa Karthari Yoga. So the Swamiji attained Niryana in Rahu Dasha-Kuja Bhukti.

Chart-17 : (Sri Jayachamaraja Wadeyar) In D-12 Budha is in 8. Though he is in his own house being Birth Avayogi killed his father in Budha Dasha. In D-1 Budha and Sun are together-hence related. In D-11, Budha in Lagna with Digbala and own house strength while Sun is exalted in 11th both from Lagna and Dasha Lord. So his accession to throne happened in Budha Dasha-Ravi Bhukti.

Chart-2 : (RKM) In D-1 Moon being in Krittika 1 gives Amsha to Moola 3. Thus it jumps to 9th house which is also the 7th from lagna. Thus Moon and Ketu (Moola Lord) are related. In her D-9, Moon is in 7 and Ketu in Lagna with Budha in own house. So her marriage happened in Moon Dasha-Ketu Bhukti. Note here that Ketu absorbed the good of Budha and gave himself the effect as Budha with Ketu lost his power.

I could cite plenty of instances I have personally dealt with. But fearing the bulkiness of this volume I have confined for the present to the above few instances which I hope are enough to impress about my theory. Let me proceed to the next subject of planetary state (Graha Samayam) or Disposition.

In addition to the intrinsic effects of planets the above outward general characterisation arising from their Samayams may also be added on and the results given out during their Udu Dasha periods. For Samayams or state of planets see Part I.

For example in chart-I when he was running Guru Dasha he would at any moment, day or night go to sleep in spite of being criticised by all as Guru is in Athinidra Samayam (No. 26). When he caught Shani Dasha he left off that habit.

I will also show the mode of working here for Guru; From Mesha to Lagna (Dhanus) there are 9 Rasis. From Lagna to the Rasi occupied by Guru (Mithuna) there are 7 Rasis. Adding the two we get 9 + 7 =16. Doubling this we get 32. Multiplying this by 16 (Dasha year of Guru) we get 32 x 16 = 512. Dividing this by 27 (The total no. of Samayams) the remainder is 26. From the order of Samayams the 26th is Athinidra; hence the effect during Guru Dasha only.

Concept of Virgottam Padas, Parivarthana Padas of Shatchalana are clearly explained. -Ed.

Chapter V
Gochara (Transit of Planet)

Inherent qualities of a planet are to be read out from its static position as at birth time while its deliverance of goods has to be estimated from its dynamic condition such as Dasha Bhukti and Gochara. Rice or wheat as it is, is not useful unless it is properly cooked. Likewise a Yoga visible in Radix chart may not fructify in his life time unless its Dasha intervenes and a favourable transit of that Lord occurs. Thus you see that the Radix position, the Dasha and Gochara are all mutually linked together. It is only when all these three factors are reckoned you will be able to fix up the timing of an event correctly.

The Dasha has a wide span of years to time an event. Even considering Bhukti the range is still wide enough- a couple of years. For reasons explained in Part I on the rectification of Birth Dasha there may be difference in the balance of Dasha at birth which really upsets all timings. Gochara will therefore remove these ambiguities and thus gives a finishing touch to the timing of events.

It is a pity that this subject is handled in all manners setting aside the genuine method. It has been the habit of Astrologers to consider the position of all the 9 planets (Uranus and Neptune also being added by some) from radix Moon or Sun and then give the Gochara effect. On the face of it, it is a great fallacy for two obvious reasons. Firstly, see the very wide range of persons born with Moon or Sun in a Rasi. So you have no consideration for the moment of Birth (Lagna) and the other planetary situations. Secondly, amidst the push and pull of the forces of planets in different directions what can an Astrologer conclude ? Is that Astrology or Dupology? He can only guess and give out his mind and not prediction. This age old practice (like other practices and blind conceptions I point out later) of reckoning the transit from Moon or Sun is exhibited in all News Papers and Magazines. In fact it has become an attractive feature of the day tempting the purchasers for this bit of information. It should be taken for what it is worth for obvious reasons. The genuine method of daily and even hourly prediction is elsewhere which you will know from me later (vide Chapter VIII-Part II). Experience warns you not to be misled by such fallacious predictions. The reckoning from Radix Moon is nothing but $\frac{1}{8}$ part of Astakavarga in this way. In the Bhinnastaka Varga of all planets find their favourable positions from Moon. That gives their favourable Gochara positions. How? In the Astakavarga of Sun the planet's favourable positions from Moon are : 3, 6, 10 and 11. Hence in Gochara when Sun transits these positions from Moon it is said to be favourable. Next in Moon Astakavarga its favourable positions from itself are 1,3,6,7 and 11. So Moon's transit here is good.

In Kuja Varga, it is auspicious from Moon in 3,6 and 11.

Likewise, Budha in his Varga 2, 4, 6, 8, 10 and 11.

Guru in his Varga in 2, 5, 7, 9 and 11.

Shukra in his Varga in 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 8, 9, 11 and 12.

Shani in his Varga 3, 6 and 11

Tabulating the above we have the following favourable Gochara positions :

Sun	....	....	3, 6, 10 11
Moon	....	....	1, 3, 6, 7, 10, 11
Kuja and Shani	....	....	3, 6, 11
Budha	....	....	2, 4, 6, 8, 10, 11
Guru	....	....	2, 5, 7, 9, 11
Shukra	....	....	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 8, 9, 11, 12

If then it was so easy to assess the transit effect from Moon's Radix position. Astrology could have been simplified and written in a line or two. In my experience I have found that except Sade-Sat ($7\frac{1}{2}$ yrs.) Shani other predictions reckoned from Moon do not tally. Even in the case of Sade-Sat Shani there are exceptions as some other conditions are to be satisfied which will be explained later.

My mode of handling Gochara is unique but classical with novel touch. I take Lagna as basis instead of Sun or Moon and it is supported in Slokas 34 to 38, Chapter XX of Phala Deepika and apply it chiefly to Dasha Lord. So in all my future discussions by planet I mean Dasha Lord unless specifically stated otherwise. I now delineate the method.

01. First judge the inherent trait of the planet at birth. It is this static character that is of primary importance. For a planet of bad trait at birth cannot give good effects even transitting favourable positions. Similarly one good at birth may not give out its good effects while transitting bad position but never does harm even in such b a d positions. Thus you see that its birth qualities play the vital role. Ignoring this fundamental truth astrologers assure the distressed consultant with false hopes by mere Gochara.

02. See the Bhava transitted by the planet. Care must be taken to differentiate Bhava from Rasi. By Bhava is meant the range from its commencement to end. Sometimes even 2 or 3 Bhava-Ranges may fall in a Rasi. When the planet transits such a Rasi see in what Bhava it is transitting. For example : in the case of a birth at 30^0 of Dhanus with its tenth cusp at 9^0 Thula let as consider a planet transitting Vrishabha and Mithuna signs. If you blindly treat them as 6th and 7th Bhavas you go wrong. In Vrishabha 5th Bhava terminates at $19\frac{1}{2}^0$ and the 6th Bhava ranges from $19\frac{1}{2}^0$ of Vrishabha to $16\frac{1}{2}^0$ of Mithuna with its cusp(central point) at 3^0 of Mithuna.

Thus you note that a planet moving from 0^0 to $19\frac{1}{2}^0$ of Vrishabha will be in 5th Bhava and not 6th, while when moving from 0^0 to $16\frac{1}{2}^0$ of Mithuna. It does so in the 6th Bhava and not the 7th as it appears to be in Rasi chart. As in the dissection of Bhava Phalams the Bhava Chart is important; even for Gochara it holds good.

(a) A planet good at birth transitting good Bhavas gives good effects of the Bhavas it owns at birth and the Bhava it transits or aspects in transit.

Note : (1) By ownership of Bhavas is meant both the Sthoola and Sookshma Bhavas explained in Part I.

(2) A planet approaching the cuspal degree of a Bhava gives formative and developing effects while one receding away from the cuspal point gives fading and diminishing effect. But at exact cuspal point it gives the maximum effect of that Bhava. This has to be read out both at birth and transit time.

(b) When the planet of trait (a) transits bad Bhavas (Dustanas) they may not show off any of their good qualities but try to remain neutral.

03. Note the Nature of the Rasi it transits.

(a) A planet good at birth transitting its own; exaltation or friendly sign gives good while in Debilitation and enemy's sign he may remain neutral.

(b) A planet bad at birth transitting debilitation, enemy's house and Zero Rasis may turn out to be neutral (but never good) while in other signs may prove bad.

04. Note the star it transits:

(a) A good planet transitting the star of a good (functional) planet, of Birth Yogi, of Dasha Yogi and of Dasha Raja Yogi gives good while in the contrary gives bad.

(b) As per Mathematical Navamsha Chart see if the planet transits any of the three stars or their trikona stars: Viz., (1) One in which the planet is situated, (2) One to which it gives Amsha and (3) One which falls at radix position. These are sensitive points where the transitting planet gives out its effects corresponding to the nature of the lords of these stars. If perchance they belong to any of the Yogi group-good results, if Avayogi-bad results.

05. If it gets combust, retrograde, fast movement (Athichara), slow movement (Manda) or stagnant (Sthambana) its effects are :

(a) A combust planet becomes totally ineffective for the moment if he be good at birth and gives out worst effect if bad at birth.

(b) Retrograde planet becomes very powerful for the moment whether for good or bad depending on its birth trait.

(c) Fast moving planet likely to give very dangerous effect.

(d) Slow moving one is slow in action and

(e) Stagnant one is neutral in effect.

06. See if they pass Zero Rasis :

(a) All positive planets at birth transitting Non Zero Rasis give good while in Zero-Rasis they get submerged unless Retrograde.

(b) All negative planets and Avayogi give good while transitting Zero-Rasis unless Retrograde.

(c) Rahu and Ketu transitting Zero-Rasis give good.

07. Judge from other planets that joins or aspect the planet in question.

If during transit a planet join or is aspected by a friendly and benefic planet results are happy, otherwise bad.

08. Like the Dasha Lord treat the Birth Yogi also, but this is subsidiary to Major Lord transit.

09. A planet transitting exact cuspal points of Bhava gives out its timely effects. Of these the 10th cusp is of utmost importance, next comes Lagna, next the fourth and lastly the seventh - The other cusps may not be much effective for transit.

10. Lastly, if you so desire consider the Gochara of Bhukti Lord also.

11. Thithi, Weekday, Star and Yoga and Lagna at the time of events :

Any event should happen in the Thithi, Weekday, Star, Yoga or Lagna of the Dasha Lord or Bhukti Lord and sometimes by Anthara Lord according to the powers of the three.

Find the ruler of the Dasha Lord. On the day when the Yoga planet synchronises with this Ruler good effects happen and also when the Dasha Lord passes through this Ruler's star, good will happen. When any two or more of the above elements are satisfied by a planet then that day is certain.

12. So far we have dealt with the transit of Dasha Lords. If they are quick-moving planets like Sun, Budha and Shukra difficulty may be felt to fix up the time of event as in the course of their Dasha periods they will have circled the zodiac several times. Likewise, if they are slow moving planets like Guru, Shani, Rahu and Ketu the span in a sign or star will be wide enough. To solve this riddle I take the progression of Moon as per western system of Secondary Directions as via media. This progressed Moon gives the effect of the Bhava and the star it transits in the same way as said of the Dasha Lord. When she touches Yogi Star, Yoga is formed vice-versa. In most of the cases progressed, Moon treated this way has given me satisfaction.

13. I have researched on the theory of Western progression both primary and secondary. That which has impressed me I give below leaving the rest to yourselves. The only candid rule is about meridian progression to planets and planetary progression to meridian. Even here you do not get the exact time. You may have to allow a year's interval.

14. Those who wish to have Annual Readings may look to Solar Birth Day maps narrated later.

15. For Daily and Hourly guide I will narrate a very successful method in the ensuing chapter.

For Gochara the above-stated theory gives authentic results. I have also gone through the other theories which though appear sometimes true and fail at other times. They are cited below for academic interest.

(a) Instead of reckoning from Moon-Sign readings are based on Tharabala. Please refer to Jyothis Payonidhi for details, if you are interested. At any rate I am not interested, so leave it here.

(b) Another system that is followed by some is based on the nature of the foot (pada) of the planet when it steps into a sign. There are four padas :

1. Suvarna Pada (Golden Foot)

2. Rajatha Pada (Silver Foot)

3. Thambra Pada (Copper Foot)

4. Loha Pada (other metallic foot chiefly Iron)

These Astrologers construe that all planets stepping into a sign with (1) and (2) padas give good results while the planet stays in that sign, with 3 mixed and with 4 bad. But my Guru treats it slightly differently. Natural Benefics give results as above but natural malefics give contrary results i.e. with 4 good; 3 neutral, 1 and 2 bad. This seems to be logical and fact by research.
